Welcome to SLRON cancer bulletin, pulling together the latest news and research in oncology. Each issue is produced by St. Luke’s Radiation Oncology Network library staff, who identify and select the most relevant information for inclusion in each issue. If you would like the full text of any of the articles attached please contact: marie.carrigan@slh.ie

LATEST NEWS

Oesophageal cancer survivors must learn to eat again. The Irish Times, 20th February.

Biobank builds brighter future for health. Irish Examiner, 16th February.

Ovarian cancer can be passed on via fathers - and it strikes younger. The Telegraph, 15th February.

Ultra-processed foods may be linked to cancer, says study. The Guardian, 14th February.

When putting is a game for patients. Irish Independent, 8th February 2018.

NEW/UPDATED CANCER GUIDELINES

RECENT ARTICLES

SUPPORTIVE CARE AND CANCER

New Pancreatic cancer cookbook: “The Nourishing your body during pancreatic cancer treatment” was launched by Breakthrough Cancer Research and University College Cork. Available as a free ebook from: https://www.breakthroughcancerresearch.ie/books-new/

Upcoming Conferences/Events

9th March: Aongus J. Curran Memorial Head and Neck Oncology Conference, St. Vincent’s University Hospital, Dublin.

14th April: IANO Conference: The Future of Cancer Care, Red Cow Moran Hotel, Dublin.

19th—20th April: John Fitzpatrick Irish GenitoUrinary Cancer Conference, Aviva Stadium, Dublin.

If you have a conference/event in Ireland you wish to promote to SLRON staff please email: library@slh.ie